Splendig Tobacco Crop.

The tobacco crop in the Southside section this year is said to be the finest known in many years, as well as the largest. The satisfactory prices obtained for last year's crop induced the farmers to plant a larger area this season, and with propitious weather and freedom from hall and insect pests a crop of richer and better leaf has been produced. The higher prices paid for new primings this month would indicate high prices also for the better qualities, the market for which will open on October 5. Information is to the effect that the entire crop has been cut and housed.
